

Service Learning Conference
"Current Status and Future Prospects of Service Learning"
Bethlehem, Palestine, May, 2023

Session

CMSR Development Experience at BU

Content:

Through my work as a coordinator of the community service program at Bethlehem University, I find that the distinction of this course is represented in the opportunity it provides for students to know themselves and their community more deeply, far from their major and area of specialization. Also, this is being achieved in a way of learning methods that are different from any other courses being taught at Bethlehem University. It also gives students the opportunity to look deeply at the problems and causes that constitute an obstacle to the development of our local civil society.

Name(s): Elias al Hazin

Affiliation: Bethlehem University